

The Society of Infectious Diseases Pharmacists

New Member Orientation

September 5, 2014

Joseph L. Kuti, Pharm.D.

President

Society of Infectious Diseases Pharmacists (SIDP)

- Non-profit organization comprised of pharmacists and other healthcare professionals involved in patient care, teaching, research, drug development, and federal regulation dedicated to promoting appropriate antimicrobial use
- Provides education, leadership, and advocacy in all aspects of the treatment of infectious diseases
- Committed to excellence in infectious diseases pharmacotherapy

SIDP's Mission

- Advance the subspecialty of infectious diseases pharmacotherapy in clinical pharmacy
- Promote, by way of scientific and professional communication, the contributions and role of pharmacists in the management of infectious diseases
- Develop interdisciplinary relationships between the Society and other professional and regulatory organizations involved in the prevention and management of infectious diseases
- Encourage, develop, and maintain standards of practice for individuals with expertise in the pharmacotherapy and management of infectious diseases
- Support and promote research addressing the epidemiology, treatment, and prevention of infectious diseases; the appropriate use of antimicrobials; and the prevention and management of antimicrobial resistance

Membership

- SIDP was established in 1990
- Membership: 629 and growing
 - Active: 369
 - Associate: 100
 - Trainee: 160

Governance

PRESIDENT'S COLUMN

Joseph L. Kuti, Pharm.D.
Associate Director, Clinical and
Economics Studies
Center for Anti-Infective Research
and Development
Hartford Hospital

Spring is in the air. Actually, where I am sitting, it is more like Summer. As I write this, I am attending the Annual Infectious Diseases Fellowship Forum here in Captiva, Florida. It is a balmy 80 degrees, but don't be too jealous – I am working.

The Fellowship Forum is put on each year to bring together all of the current Pharmacy Fellows in Infectious Diseases to 1) provide a venue for all of tomorrow's researchers to meet their peers and develop lasting friendships, and 2) to showcase some of the projects Fellows are working on. Each Fellow has to give a 10 minute stand-up presentation of their research project, and then there is a 5 minute Q&A where Fellowship coordinators, mentors, and Fellows themselves can ask questions and provide constructive feedback. By the way, I am confident the Fellows don't call this latter part "constructive feedback". We have the folks from Wayne State University (Rybak, Davis, Cha), University of Chicago Illinois (Danziger, Rodvold), and the University of Minnesota (Rotschafer) to thank for this wonderful opportunity. And that's what it truly is... opportunity.

If you provide multiple opportunities for Infectious Diseases Pharmacists in training, great minds will take advantage of these opportunities and shine. As part of SIDP's Strategic Plan (you can find a link to it on the Home Page), our first goal is to support the advancement of pharmacists in ID clinical practice. One of our strategic directions in this area is to provide opportunity by supporting/funding ID training program for residents. This year, thanks to a generous grant from Cubist Pharmaceuticals, I am thrilled to report that SIDP will support two ID training programs. Unique to these programs is that Fellowships will also be included along with PGY-2 residencies, and that the program must meet specific criteria in Antimicrobial Stewardship with a strong focus on outcome-based endpoints. The RFP for these programs went out last month, and as you read this newsletter, the Board will be reviewing applications with a decision to be made by June 1st. We'll announce the recipients of these exciting opportunities at the Annual Meeting.

Speaking of the Annual Meeting, I apologize if there was any recent confusion on where or when the Annual Meeting is going to be held: ICAAC versus ID Week. In current tradition, the Annual Meeting will be held the day before ICAAC, so mark your calendars for Friday, September 5th 2014, and plan on joining us in Washington DC. The Program's Committee has put together an amazing group of speakers and topics this year to provide us opportunity for education and for part of our keynote, a bit of entertainment as well. However, as many of our members also attend ID Week, we are also putting a plan together for a SIDP reception with a Meet-the-Experts-in-Stewardship format for those making their way to Philadelphia this year also. Stay tuned for more information.

Since the theme of this column is opportunity, I am pleased to announce SIDP will also be funding two Young Investigator Research Awards this year. This is in line with Goal 2 in our strategic plan: to support the advancement of pharmacists in ID research. Research funding, especially for young faculty members and clinical pharmacists, has become more challenging to acquire in recent years. The Board appreciates that these awards, although small, are often the catalyst needed to spark a successful research career. That is why we have decided to offer two awards this year. The Research Committee is currently preparing the RFP, and it will be announced shortly. I encourage you to bring your best ideas forward, whether they are bench-top, translational, or clinical research, and apply.

Finally, in an effort to reward and recognize certain individuals in our membership who have consistently dedicated their time and effort to SIDP, the Board is exploring a Fellowship status for the Society. Please fill out the survey that is currently up to help us figure out where this acknowledgement best fits. I can't say I know if adding 4 or 5 more letters at the end of one's name will provide additional opportunity, but it certainly sounds nice and is the right path for our growing Society.

S-FAR

U.S. Stakeholder Forum on Antimicrobial Resistance

Convened by IDSA (www.s-far.org)

Over 75 organizations signed on.

S-FAR Principles

- Antimicrobial resistance (AR) is a well-documented and urgent problem of global significance and the U.S. should be a leader in a multi-pronged effort to reduce the negative impact of resistance on human, animal, and plant health.
- The U.S. needs a financed, coordinated, actionable national plan to address AR with measurable goals, timelines, and mechanisms for accountability.
- The U.S. AR action plan and its implementation must be informed by formal, substantive, and regular engagement with non-government experts and stakeholders.
- Government alone cannot effectively address the problem of AR; stakeholders (including healthcare providers, pharmacists, veterinarians, patients & their families, consumers, payers, public health entities, industry, farmers & ranchers, researchers & academia, advocates, and others) are critical partners who can help inform policy, create awareness, and mobilize key constituencies and the broader public to support action.

Recognition Awards Committee

- Four award categories:
 - Clinician of the Year
 - Young Investigator of the Year
 - Impact Paper of the Year
 - Gita Patel Best Practice Recognition Award

Clinician of the Year

The purpose of this award is to:

- Recognize an SIDP member who has developed an innovative and/or excellent clinical practice site

Areas of contribution to infectious diseases pharmacotherapy may include, but are not limited to, development of innovative services, documentation of benefits, and methods of promoting the safe, effective, and rational use of anti-infective agents.

Kelly L. Echevarria, Pharm.D.

Young Investigator of the Year

The purpose of this award is to:

- Recognize past research accomplishments
- Reward young investigators who show research promise in the broad area of infectious diseases

Preference is given to independent research work conducted after completion of terminal education and training. Nominees are evaluated on research funding, publication record, leadership, teaching and honors or awards received for their research.

Young Investigator of the Year

Steven Leonard, Pharm.D.

Impact Paper of the Year

The purpose of this award is to:

- Recognize a significant contribution to the peer-reviewed literature in infectious diseases pharmacotherapy by an active or associate SIDP member

Nominees are evaluated primarily based on their contribution to the paper and the impact or significance of the publication.

Gita Patel Best Practice Recognition Award

The purpose of this award is to:

- Recognize a clinical pharmacist who has implemented and documented the impact of an innovative or collaborative “best practice” initiative to improve care of patients with infectious diseases

The areas of best-practice may include, but are not limited to, development of innovative services to deliver quality care or implementation of guidelines or pathways. Research should include documentation and preferably publication of benefits and highlight reliable methods of delivering optimal, effective, and evidence-based used of anti-infective agents.

Preference will be given to pharmacists providing patient care in the community setting and to those who do not receive salary support dedicated to research. Previous formal infectious diseases training is not a requirement.

- Sponsored by Cubist
